Exmample projects include USAID Catalyst: GKI is currently a lead design partner on the five-year, $24 million Catalyst buy-in mechanism. The mechanism advances innovation for complex development challenges by providing institutional support and technical assistance to USAID offices. World Bank Outlook 2050: There is a growing recognition that the Paris Agreement's long-term objective to limit climate change to 2°C of warming will not be met through the current nation commitments. GKI engaged WB staff across the sectors to create a vision of innovative solutions for how the World Bank can engage the countries it works with to promote a 2°C future.

Through a customized range of resources, tools, and methods, GKI cultivates the knowledge, skills, and mindset needed to design innovative solutions to tackle complex challenges in a range of sectors, domains, and geographies. Polaris Capacity Training: GKI partnered with the Polaris Project, a 4-day immersive sprint focused on shifting their mindset towards systems thinking in their work to address the sex trafficking and labor trafficking systems. Virginia Tech Training: GKI trained Virginia Tech faculty to cultivate partnerships with agricultural researchers in East Africa by training them to 1) analyze their existing collaborations within the research ecosystem, (2) apply practices and processes to identify partnership opportunities and strengthen their networking and pitching skills, and (3) understand best practices for designing, managing and sustaining research networks to accelerate their research project goals.

Example projects include: GAIN Delphi Research: Postharvest food loss is a complex challenge that requires the participation of the public and private sector. To combat this challenge Global Alliance for Improved Nutrition and GKI coalesced a network of global experts to prioritize and assess food systems and nutrition innovations. (FAO) NENA Food Systems Research: The Near East and North Africa Region's food systems have been affected by political unrest, environmental degradation, shifting demographics, and more. As of year end, had no uncertain tax positions that qualify for either recognition or disclosure in its financial statements.

GKI's policy is to recognize interest and penalties on tax positions related to its unrecognized tax benefits in income tax expense in the financial statements. No interest and penalties were recorded during the year then ended.
